About the Science Academies

The Indian Academy of Sciences, founded as a Society by Professor C. V. Raman on 27 April 1934. It aims to promote the advancement of science in both pure and applied branches through the support of original research and the dissemination of scientific knowledge to the community. The three science academies of national importance - Indian Academy of Sciences (IASc), Bengaluru; Indian National Science Academy (INSA), New Delhi; The National Academy of Sciences, India (NASI), Allahabad has set up Science Education Panel to promote the progress and upholding the cause of science. One of the activities of the panel is to conduct Lecture workshops to provide means of exchange of scientific knowledge amongst scientists and to nurture scientific talent amongst the students and teachers.

About the College

S.J.R College for Women is located centrally at Rajajinagar entrance with a reckoning tradition of 25 years. It is a well known institution in Bengaluru that has been striving to empower women students and enable them to acquire skills for better future. The institution has walked many a mile, built brick by brick as envisioned by former President, Prof. M. Shadaksharaswamy, an academician and administrator par excellence. SJRCW is affiliated to Bangalore University and recognised by UGC under section 2(f) and 12(B). It has successfully and voluntarily completed 3 cycles of accreditation by NAAC. The hallmarks of SJRCW are loyalty and commitment to the vision of moulding, chiselling and building the capacities of young women. The department of Physical Sciences stands dedicated to its basic principles in imparting knowledge and preparing the students towards achieving academic excellence.

About the Workshop

Nanotechnology intends to imitate nature by taking advantage of the unique properties of Nano-scale matter to come up with more efficient ways of controlling & manipulating molecules. Technology is not only getting smaller, it is also evolving faster. In recent years nanotechnology has been developing along two different lines. One of them is leading to technological developments on the Nano-scale. The other line anticipates designing & building atom by atom nano machines & devices which would bring in the next industrial revolution. The objective of this workshop is to create a platform for students & teachers to enhance their knowledge in the field of Nanoscience & Technology. Renowned Scientists of this field share their knowledge & expertise with the participants, which in turn will be expected to promote activities in the field of Nanoscience & Technology. Also Nanotechnology is in the University curriculum of under graduate and post graduate levels.
