17/6/2021- Day 2- Online Yoga Competition

Yoga and meditation have been shown to be effective in alleviating symptoms of depression and anxiety in healthy volunteers and psychiatric populations. Recent work has also indicated that yoga can improve cognitive-behavioral performance and control. Although there have been no controlled studies of the effects of yoga in a prison population, we reasoned that yoga could have beneficial effects in a setting where psychosocial functioning is often low, and the frequency of impulsive behaviors' is high.

On the account of International yoga day on online competition by department of physical education and sports. Was organized due to pandemic Covid -19, the event took place by use of digital technology online yoga competition 2021. 4 participated for the competition it was successful event. And the 3 participant were rewarded for the winners.

18/6/2021 - Day 3 – Essay Writing Competition

Topic- "Yoga for Health"

Many experts have recommended yoga for women to help them successfully cater to the multiple demands on their time. Women have always had it tough if they dare to dream big. They are expected to multi-task all the time, living like Superman – regular office worker by day and superhero by night. Women must, not only, take care of their domestic duties with efficiency and grace, but also work outside the four walls justifying their education and intellectual capabilities, at par with men.

Women, across the globe, need to be able to keep many balls up in the air at the same time ensuring that not a single one of them falls at any time. This is why yoga will seem like a blessing for women. Yoga is a means to achieving sanity and serenity in their trying and taxing world. Simple breathing techniques will help women calm down and handle their multiple responsibilities with proficiency and poise.

On account of International yoga day an online essay writing competition was organized by the department of physical education and sports on the topic- "Yoga for Health" the online event was organized on 18/6/21 and students were informed to upload their essays through online within 21/6/21. 16 of our students participated in the programme the results were declared on 21/6/21. And 3 papers were rewarded for the winners.

12. Intercollegiate Video making Competition on Nature awareness:

Intercollegiate online Video making Competition on "Nature Awareness" was held on 17/1/2021 on the occasion of Swami Vivekananda Youth week celebration. Students from various college all over Karnataka participated in the Competition. We received around 70 videos from the participants.

The main objective of conducting this webinar is to create awareness on maintaining nature and Environment. The nature world- land, Forest, Habitants and Ecosystems- support all life on the planet. Our food systems, nutrition and health depend biodiversity and health depend biodiversity loss. With this decline, agro biodiversity is disappearing and also essential knowledge of traditional medicine and local foods. Loss of diversity in our food systems contribute to malnutrition and unhealthy diets which are major risk factors of non communicable diseases such as heart diseases and type II diabetes.

We need to mobilise and catalyse action around our concerns on health, nutrition, and food systems and to raise awareness on how to conserve and sustainably use biodiversity for our well being. Protecting biodiversity is critical to achieving the sustainable development goals, including those related to hunger, poverty and health. By living climate friendly lifestyle and sustainable use of natural resources can help to preserve nature.

Results of video making competition are as follows:

About the Science Academies

The Indian Academy of Sciences, founded as a Society by Professor C. V. Raman on 27 April 1934, aims to promote the advancement of science in both pure and applied branches through the support of original research and the dissemination of scientific knowledge to the community. The three science academies of national importance - Indian Academy of Sciences (IASC), Bengaluru, Indian National Science Academy (INSA), New Delhi, The National Academy of Sciences, India (NASI), Allahabad has set up Science Education Panel to promote the progress and upholding the cause of science. One of the activities of the panel is to conduct Lecture workshops to provide means of exchange of scientific knowledge amongst scientists and to nurture scientific talent amongst the students and teachers.

About the College

SJRC College for Women is located centrally at Rajajinagar entrance with a reckoning tradition of 25 years. It is a well known institution in Bengaluru that has been striving to empower women students and enable them to acquire skills for better future. The institution has walked many a mile, built brick by brick as envisioned by former President, Prof. M. Shadakhsharwamy, an academician and administrator par excellence. SJRCW is affiliated to Bangalore University and recognised by UGC under sections 2(f) and 12(B). It has successfully and voluntarily completed 3 cycles of accreditation by NAAC. The hallmarks of SJRCW are loyalty and commitment to the vision of moulding, channeling and building the capacities of young women. The department of Physical Sciences stands dedicated to its basic principles in imparting knowledge and preparing the students towards achieving academic excellence.

About the Workshop

Nanotechnology stands to immense nature by taking advantage of the unique properties of Nano-scale matter to come up with more efficient ways of controlling & manipulating molecules. Technology is not only getting smaller, it is also evolving faster. In recent years nanotechnology has been developing along two different lines. One of them is leading to technological developments on the Nano-scale. The other line anticipates designing & building stem by atom nano machines & devices which would bring in the next industrial revolution. The objective of this workshop is to create a platform for students & teachers to enhance their knowledge in the field of Nanoscience & Technology. Renowned Scientists of this field share their know ledge & expertise with the participants, which in turn will be expected to promote activities in the field of Nanoscience & Technology. Also Nanotechnology is in the University curriculum of under graduate and post graduate levels.
